

Access Free Software

Bentley Education provides students and educators access to 50+ Bentley software applications to help you put your skills into action. Access free learning materials and courses as long as you remain eligible. To get started, use the instructions below.

Create a Bentley Education account

1. Go to bentley.com/education.
2. Select Sign Up and complete the on-screen details to create your account and verify your eligibility. If you have previously created a Bentley Education account, you can go to bentley.com/education/login and use your existing account details.
 - Use an education-domain email provided by your school (e.g. yourname@school.edu). If you cannot register using a verified education-domain email, you will be asked to provide additional proof of eligibility. Next, you will be prompted to verify your email and set your password. Once this step is complete, you can review and edit your profile and update details needed.

Download your software and start your project

1. Once your account is created and validated, make sure you are logged in.
2. Go to bentley.com/software to filter and explore all the software available using your education access. You can explore product pages to learn more about our software applications.
 - After you have registered, you can now access software immediately. Note, if you were unable to upload your ID, you will need to send us documented proof of your current student or educator status at bentley.com/education/help for assistance.

3. Select Install directly from the software search grid and follow the instructions to install the software on your device.

- Before you download and install a software application, you will be able to view the system requirements. Free education access is provided for desktop applications.
- Please note: The first time you download any application, it will also install the connection gateway. When you open Bentley software, this gateway window will appear, prompting you to log in. Use your Bentley Education account details. This window may also show up when you start your device. You can adjust its frequency in your device settings.

4. To learn how to use an application, go to bentley.com/education/edu-learn and explore all of our courses which can help you develop your technical skills. These resources are available using your same account details through our learning platform, Bentley Learn. Once you complete a course or learning plan, you can download and share your certificate of completion.
5. If you're looking for education-specific resources to get you started on a real-world project, inspire ideas for your classroom assignment, or build a portfolio, go to bentley.com/education/edu-resources or bentley.com/education/career-building.
